A. F. Of L. Head Makes Charges Against National Labor Relations Board

BIAS IS CHARGED AGAINST BOARD

Green Testifies Before Congressional NLRB Investigating Committee

By GRIFFING BANCROFT, Jr.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today charged National Labor Relations board with administering the Wagner act "according to its own peculiar views", but said that the AFL does not ask any "essential' change in the act itself.

The veteran leader, who appeared before the congressional NLRB investigating committee, said he did not oppose the act, but its administration.

"I am a friend and protector of the national labor relations act," Green said. "We do not seek any essential change in it. I have referred to is as labor's magna carter.

"But we charge the board with maladministration, with bias in administering the act. We believe it is administering the act according to its own peculiar views. We feel

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Observing some of the tall "slim" house chimneys in the city, it can be noticed occasionally that some of them are out of line, and leaning out somewhat at the top. In one particular instance, it was the chimney from which a strong volume of smoke was emitting. It is possible that the irregularity of the structure had been caused by the action of severe cold and frost on the warm chimney bricks, causing a warp. Maybe the builder is not to blame.

By J. ALLISON BORS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 25.—Delegates to the golden jubilee convention of the United Mine Workers of America prepared today to vote on hundreds of resolutions, including one backing their president, John L. Lewis, in his attack upon President Roosevelt's labor policies.

The order of business on the third day of the conclave called for a report by P. T. Fagan of Pittsburgh, chairman of the resolutions committee, on 1800 proposals submitted by local unions in 27 states. Most of the resolutions were said to pertain to UMW and general labor problems.

Delegates To Back Lewis

While officials of the UMW admitted that a number of local unions proposed to endorse Roosevelt for a third term, they intimated such resolutions would be voted down and that delegates would back Lewis, who yesterday bolted openly from the ranks of New Deal supporters.

Predicting that Roosevelt would go down to "ignominious defeat' if he sought a third term, Lewis ad-

Patriotic Organization Representatives Smash Windows On Leaving Consulate

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

TOKYO, Jan. 25.—Windows of the British consulate were smashed by members of a Japanese patriotic society today as indignation mounted over the removal by a British cruiser of 21 German seamen from the Japanese Liner Asama Maru.

A deputation representing the Japanese Tohokai patriotic organization called at the consulate and presented an anti-British resolution. As they left, the members of the deputation vented their ire on the building's windows.

The incident occurred as Japanese newspapers bitterly criticized Great Britain and the United States, charging that the Asama Maru incident occurred only because London was convinced of American support

Colder Weather Does Comeback

Mercury Drops Again After Brief Period Of Moderate Temperatures

HEAVY SNOWS IN PARTS OF STATE

(International News Service)

With king winter still spreading his icy fingers over the entire state of Pennsylvania, ear muffs and heavy overcoats continued to be in style today.

Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Philadelphia apparently escaped the worst of the snow storm that came rolling out of the south, but other sections of Pennsylvania, especially in the western area, reported falls that piled old snow up as high as 22 inches.

Mercury Tumbles

Ice gorges continued to hold sway in most of the rivers throughout the state as the mercury tumbled again in the wake of the new cold wave. In eastern Pennsylvania, ice floes continued to hamper Delaware river shipping from Philadelphia to the sea and huge ice blocks were piling against bridges.

The Susquehanna was still locked by the freeze and in western Pennsylvania, the Ohio, Allegheny and Youghiogheny rivers were still gorged with ice. The Monongahela was open to localized navigation as far upstream as Rice's Landing.

Road conditions throughout the state generally were fair, but safe driving was the key-word.

The cold is expected to last over the weekend.

Boise Honoring Borah In Death, Services Today

Home-Town Of Late Senator In Mourning, Will Be Laid To Rest On Hill Top Site

(International News Service)

BOISE, Ia., Jan. 25.—Idaho was ready today to receive the body of her illustrious son, Senator William E. Borah, for burial in the capital city of the state he served for 33 years.

Through the night a soft snow fell—the first of the winter—to blanket Boise valley in a white shroud seemingly prearranged as a sign Idaho was mourning the death of her favorite son.

The snow emphasized the silence which has engulfed Boise since the news came that Senator Borah was dead. Business in the city virtually was at standstill as a train with full military guard of honor, steamed toward Montpelier to meet the funeral train from Washington, D. C.

City In Mourning

The train carrying the body of the noted statesman is scheduled to arrive at Boise at 7:20 a. m. The body will lie in state at the capitol from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., when brief services will be held. Afterward burial will take place on Morris Hill, overlooking Boise valley. Only brief services by Dean Frank Rhea of the Boise Episcopal church, an old friend of Borah's, were planned to mark the occasion.

The city has been in mourning since the famed "Lion of Idaho" died last Friday evening, and Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen appointed a committee of the senator's close friends to prepare Boise services and proclaimed today a day of mourning.

Soviet Airplanes Continue Raids On Finland—More Casualties Reported

HELSINKI, Jan. 25.—Reports from Russia that Dictator Josef Stalin intends to carry out the war against Finland to the bitter end and regardless of the cost seemed partly confirmed today by latest reports from the front and especially by resumption of the Soviet drive north of Lake Ladoga.

In that area the Russians unleashed a double-pronged offensive but the Finnish command claimed that it had been repulsed with heavy losses. On that front and before the Mannerheim line on the Carelian Isthmus, it was claimed, the Russians have lost thousands of dead.

Infantry and large and small tanks, aided by artillery, were thrown into the campaign above the big lake, where the terrain is more favorable to mechanized forces than on the Carelian Isthmus.

More Plane Raids

Soviet airplanes, in a raid on Kuumo, south of Suomussalmi, wounded 30 persons, 18 of them gravely.

Other villages near Oulo lake were machine-gunned and telephone wires were broken by bombs. Otherwise damage was slight. Propaganda leaflets also were dropped.

Military authorities in Helsinki said that after the Russians failed to break through the Mannerheim line or to cut Finland in two, they made their next major attempt on the North Central Salla front, where heavy fighting is progressing with the result still in doubt.

Department Of Justice On Trail Of Higher Powers

By LEON W. SHLOSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. — The Department of Justice was on the trail today of "several" individuals who are the higher powers behind "certain organizations" working toward overthrow of the government.

Henry O'Donnell, special assistant to the attorney general, conducting the special District of Columbia federal grand jury investigation of subversive foreign-agent activities said:

"The question being asked is why we haven't indicted the big-name leaders of these organizations. The answer is: We're not after the so-called big-name leaders.

"Bunch Of Charlie McCarthys"

"They are merely a bunch of 'Charlie McCarthys' for the higher-ups whose names are not generally known to the public.

"These men are the real objects of our investigation."

A number of well-known communist leaders have been indicted since the federal drive against espionage, sabotage and related illegal activities opened. Among these was Earl Browder, party leader in this country, convicted in New York Tuesday for passport irregularities. Browder's brother, William, testified before the grand jury here.

"We could indict these so-called big names anytime we wanted to," O'Donnell asserted.

Other Disclosures

Among other disclosures made by the youthful former Chicago lawyer were:

1. Agents of at least one major nation, other than Russia, are under investigation by the grand jury. He would not identify the nation.

2. The daily publication (he withheld the name) of a large subversive group in this country is being investigated by the department. Certain officials of the publication are believed to be using fictitious names in making required legal reports.

3. The headquarters of another allegedly foreign-sponsored group has been moved into a country bordering the United States so that, according to O'Donnell, "we can't

South Suffers Most

The south suffered most from the unprecedented cold. Even on Florida's lower peninsula the wave made itself felt at Miami where 60 degrees or more is normal, the temperature hovered in the 30's after sinking to four degrees above freezing shortly after midnight. At Key West a low of 49 degrees was unusual.

Cattle and crop losses from the cold were reported throughout the southland. In the Kissimmee River Valley in Florida, more than 1,000 head of cattle were said to have died. Citrus growers kept large fires burning in their orchards to hold damage to a minimum.

Winter vegetable crops in South Carolina, Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia and Florida were feared to have been heavily damaged.

Such a push, they claimed, probably would not prove successful, but would be "very uncomfortable" for the Finns, who are fighting on that front with only small forces.

Russian Strategy

The Russian strategy, it was conjectured, would be to relieve the Finnish pressure on the Salla sector, where the Soviet divisions are still battling to fight their way out of a Finnish trap which so far has failed to close around the Reds.

The Russians hope, it was said, thus to permit their forces on the Salla sector to resume their advance and join forces with the troops driving down from the north. Such a double force then would be in position to resume the attempt to cut Finland in two.

Helsinki authorities, however, attached greatest importance to the Red army operations just north of Lake Ladoga, which are aimed chiefly to outflank the left wing of the Mannerheim line in a sweeping semi-circular drive.

These attempts so far have been halted by the Finns, but a furious battle is still progressing in the Kollaanjoki and Aittojoki area.

Will Halt Serious Threat

If the Russian troops on this front can be halted permanently, it was stated, the most serious military threat against Finland will be ended, for the time being at least, according to official quarters.

But if they stage another advance and unite with a Soviet division now at Kitelae, it was admitted, the situation will be extremely dangerous for Finland.

Observers had the impression that the real battle between the Finns and Russians at present is that raging north of Lake Ladoga, while the Soviet attack against the Mannerheim line are being made as a matter of military principle to harrass and tire out the Finnish forces.

Northern Front Quiet

Further to the north the fronts were fairly quiet with little activity reported in the Nurmes, Suomussalmi and adjacent areas. There was a certain amount of patrol activity, however, and most of this was reported occurring on Russian soil.

A high Finnish officer who returned from the Carelian front to Helsinki said that the Russians, following their defeat at Taiplane, are now concentrating their chief activites against the Mannerheim line in the Summa and Moulajaervi sectors.

In a single day, he declared no less than 50 Russian batteries fired for eight hours without cessation, using what the Finnish officer called a "fantastic" amount of ammunition.

The results of this single barrage, which the officer said cost more than 1,000,000, were meager. He added humorously that farmers near the firing line reported their chickens were laying more eggs.

ADMINISTRATION OF WAGNER ACT GREEN'S TARGET

the board is anything but a judicial body."

Recommends Amendments

Green said he recommended four specific amendments to the act:

1. Provision of unit rules should be changed to insure workers free choice whether they are to be craft or so-called industrial workers.

2. An amendment to permit a speedy court review of representation cases on agreement of unions involved.

3. The "outrageous delays" in holding hearings to be eliminated.

4. The board should be revised as to personnel.

Green then reviewed specific cases.

He said in the National Casket company case, charges were filed on October 19, 1935, and the board's decision was not rendered until April 10, 1939.

"This is a case of outrageous delay," he said.

In the case of the Johns Manville company at Lompoc, Calif., he said the AFL union won an election. This, he said, was blocked by two CIO men who boasted "they could stop the election if they couldn't win it".

He said the CIO filed a new petition and that it was almost two years before the board dismissed this.

This was a bold attempt to block an AFL union," Green said. "It worked a great hardship on our attempts to secure collective bargaining."

BITTER CRITICISM OF U. S.-GREAT BRITAIN BY JAPAN'S PAPERS

terests in the far east and acting as if it had the right to police the whole world is a bit too thick.

"The Asama Maru affair was possible only because the British were convinced of American support and thought the Japanese fleet was tied up by American trans-Pacific strategy."

(Editor's note: Recent movements of American fleet units in Hawaiian waters and United States naval expansion plans in Washington have drawn sharp criticism from Japanese sources.)

"Japan Not Prostrate"

"If Britain and the United States," Asahi continued, "have swallowed the propaganda that Japan is economically laid prostrate, and if they take to provoking Japan, both soon will realize that wrong recoils upon itself."

The same newspaper warned that Japan will not be satisfied with a mere legal reply from London to the Japanese protest regarding the Asama Maru incident.

The Japanese government, is said, is demanding to know exactly what steps the British government has taken to prevent recurrence of such incidents in view of having "caused such an unpleasant incident under Japan's nose".

Furthermore, Asahi stated, Japan will demand to know what British guarantee will be given for the future regarding Japanese merchant vessels carrying Germans not engaged in military service

Modernistic Theme Used For Senior Dinner-Dance

"The World of Tomorrow" was the theme used in arranging some of the most unusual decorations for the senior high school graduating class dinner-dance, held Wednesday evening at The Castleton hotel ballroom.

Buildings of the World's Fair were constructed in miniature, in all of the colors of the rainbow, to be used as table decorations. Dance program covers and place cards were also hand-painted in modernistic fashion.

Dinner menu was served at 6:30 o'clock, and was followed by a period of dancing, with music being furnished by a popular local orchestra. During the hours, gifts from the class were presented to Professor Frank L. Orth, Mrs. Marshall G. Matheny, Miss Marjorie Rhodes, Miss Mildred Burleson and to James Hewitt, class president. Guests present included: Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Green, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Orth, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Woolcock, Norman P. Nelson, Miss Marjorie Rhodes, Miss Elizabeth Williams, James Newell and Marshall G. Matheny.

All of the decorations for the event were made by Vivian Douglas and Jennie Dachko, aided by girls and boys from the art department, working under the supervision of Miss Bess Gailey, school art supervisor.

Committees responsible for the success of the outstanding social event were comprised of the following members: Banquet, Tom Clark and Joanna Hood; decorations, Vivian Douglas and Jennie Dachko; menu, Joanna Hood and Harry Booth; orchestra, Fred Maciarello; guests, Miriam Smith, Marian Hughes and Norma Jean Sanders; flowers, DeEtta Cartwright and Lawrence Cromie; and tickets, Charles Capitola, Crawford Richards, Ray Dillard, Marie Hanlon, Marjorie McNicholas and Katherine Nowling.

WHEN DEATH LURKS HIGH OR LOW

THE cost in human lives directly due to the "blackouts" is clearly indicated in the figures made public in Great Britain. They show 4138 deaths, mostly on the highways, in the first four months of the blackouts, as against 2466 highway deaths in the preceding eight months.

Darkness over England has cost more lives than the war, with a four months' death list of a little over 2500 soldiers and sailors. But that point, stressed by British complainants, including numerous members of the House of Commons, is not entirely well taken. On the war fronts the British are reaping a small and consequently less unhappy harvest, because of the quiet tenor of war activities to date.

But on the "Home front" the Air Ministry has imposed, and, it is stated, will continue to impose, complete darkness over the cities particularly because, in spite of the increasing death list, even worse consequences would follow any modification sufficient to insure greater highway safety in the United Kingdom.

WORLD-WIDE EXPLORING

Prehistoric bones, Mayan stones with carvings, two-inch ants, waterfalls ten times as high as Niagara Falls, the deepest hole in the ocean, kangaroos that climb trees, ancient manuscripts, curious lizards, birds and fish new to science, mountains scaled, and stratosphere studied—

All that is just part of the list of "important finds in many fields" that rewarded archeologists and explorers all over the world in 1939. There were expeditions in the Arctic and the Antarctic, in Mexico and New Mexico, in ancient Tibet and China, in the high atmosphere above Baltimore, in the depths of the sea, in New Guinea and in the jungles of Brazil.

Scientists will spend years studying, analyzing, classifying the materials they have brought home, the measurements they have made, the facts noted in their travel and delving. All of it will contribute in some way to the total of men's knowledge and understanding of the earth on which he lives and the civilizations that have preceded ours.

As to understanding ourselves and our times—that seems to be beyond us. Perhaps, archeologists, naturalists and other scientists of the future will have to tackle that job.

FINLAND'S GREAT WHITE ALLY

In the fall of 1812, Napoleon crossed the Niemen with 420,000 men, veterans with a reputation for invincibility in the field, with Moscow as his objective. Toward the winter's close the pitiable remnants of the Grand Army came straggling home, about 35,000 of them—gaunt, hollow-eyed men in rags, who had spent a winter of horror and had been beaten by a foe against whom they were powerless.

They had not met with formidable opposition by the forces of Czar Alexander. At Smolensk and Borodino, the only major operations fought, they sent the foe fleeing before them. Moscow, abandoned by the Czar, was found in flames. Then came the retreat, one of the greatest disasters in military history.

But the Russians were not the artisans of this tragedy. It was the forces of winter, the great white ally of the Czar, who decimated the ranks, cutting down men and horses in their tracks, to die with merciful painlessness in the snow.

Now this ally has gone over to the side of Finland and has brought a temperature of fifty degrees below zero to bear against his old comrades-in-arms. "It is the easiest death they could die, easier than being machine-gunned and more pleasant than being bombed," a Finnish officer explains. "They simply fall asleep, and after that whatever happens is not their battle."

This is a comforting aspect of a grim tragedy. Human agencies are not so merciful when they set themselves to the task of extinguishing life.

HE WAS APPARENTLY RIGHT

The Russian debacle in Finland has proved one thing to the satisfaction of anyone who will take time to recall recent history. It will show that Colonel Lindbergh was right several months ago when he made some critical remarks about Russia's fighting strength.

At the time, it will be remembered, Colonel Lindbergh declared that the Russian airforce was disorganized and that its power was greatly exaggerated and far inferior to that of Germany. In those days it was fashionable to regard Soviet Russia as a great military machine which, if once set going, would crush Germany and roll over all of Europe.

Colonel Lindbergh's remarks, therefore, were greeted with scorn and derision by Moscow's admirers in the United States and Europe, while the reds themselves denounced him as a tool of capitalism who was seeking to propagandize against the mighty Russian "democracy." Some of those who disagreed with him declared that he didn't know what he was talking about, that he was either a pro-Nazi or had been dazzled by a decoration given him by Dictator Hitler.

Now, however, the Finns seem to have proved conclusively that Colonel Lindbergh was not talking through his chapeau when he made light of Soviet Russia's aerial accomplishments. And it seems that the red infantry, artillery and general staff are not much better.

Those who attacked Colonel Lindbergh a few months ago on his remarks anent Russian flying ability now seem to owe him an apology. But they won't give it to him.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

GETTING THE BEST MEDICAL GUIDANCE

THERE IS nothing so precious to us as our children, and the younger and more helpless they are, the more they hold to our heartstrings. Their healthy physical growth is, of course, our first concern. We are willing to make any sacrifices to this end. No matter what our economic limitations, we want the best guidance in the physical care of the infant we can get.

How wonderful it is that so many cities and towns, even rural areas, have baby centers to which mothers can take their babies at regular intervals for advice on their care and feeding.

But we can never be absolutely sure that our children won't get sick some time. For such emergencies we want to be ready. We want to know whom to call upon.

Ou Neighbor's Advice

The average parent is likely to select a doctor on the advice of a neighbor. If she hears a doctor's name mentioned often, she assumes that he must be entirely reliable. Most people are greatly impressed by the doctor who always has his office full of persons waiting to see him. Sometimes such a doctor is the very one to be avoided.

We like a good handshaker and smiler at the Sunday school and club, but when our child is sick or we are ill ourselves, we want expert advice. Therefore, our first concern is, "How well is the doctor trained?" Because our child is precious, we want to be sure that the doctor to whom we entrust his health and life has the very best training.

We easily can find out. In practically every county seat, every town and city, there is a public health department. Why not inquire of it the names of some doctors who are qualified? If there is an academy of medicine, its advice will be reliable. Don't wait until your child is sick to do so. Do it right now so as to be ready for any emergency.

Not Medical Adviser

I am not a medical expert, but I wish I were. Unfortunately, an occasional reader supposes I am, and asks me for medical advice. Of course, I cannot give it, and must take the trouble to write to tell this inquirer so.

When my own children have been sick, we have called upon a well-trained child doctor. We have also kept in touch with this doctor to advise us on keeping our children well. I strongly recommend that you do likewise.

As I say to my parent classes at the university, I am not an expert on what the child should eat, for example, but I presume to know how to make him want to eat. My field is in the guidance of his habits, attitudes, emotions — his behavior, in short; and in helping his parents in relation to these matters. And my readers have a right to know by what authority I, or any other expert, offer such advice.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. In our neghborhood is a boy of seven. He lies, steals and uses ugly language. The other parents do not want their children to play with him. Month by month he grows worse and worse. Please suggest a solution to this problem.

A. Welcome this child to your home when you can have time to supervise its play with your children. Help him to gain great satisfaction at his play there. But let him know that the moment he violates the rules of your home, he must leave. Try to get the other parents to treat him in like fashion, all aiming at winning the friendship and co-operation of this child's parents.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

LET 'EM SEE

There probably are no persons who plan to come to Southern California, winter or summer, spring or autumn, but what have a consuming desire to visit Hollywood, see the Moving Picture actors, see a Moving Picture made or see part of a Moving Picture made; at least, to visit a Moving Picture Studio. It is also probably true that not more than one out of a hundred of the visitors who come to Southern California ever see the inside of a Motion Picture Studio or even pass through the gates of the property called "The Lot," on which the Moving Pictures for the most part are made. The visitors may, if possible, in driving or walking about Hollywood, have pointed out to them an actor or an actress and that is about as near as they ever get to the Industry.

It is now suggested, inasmuch as San Francisco is going to re-open its Exposition this year, that the

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

By FRANCINE MARKEL

Here arrives a plaintive note asking me the eternal question: How can I best camouflage my fat? And here goes my answer: *

Avoid: All lustrous or stiff fabrics such as satin or taffeta; also bright colors or conspicuous patterns, plaids, ruffles, horizontal stripes or designs, conspicuous sashes or belts, short skirts; wide light cuffs on a dark dress, flowing sleeves, very small or very large hats, a low or broad coiffure, a very high or very low waitsline, small pieces of jewelry.

Adopt: Inconspicuous colors for large areas, soft but not too clinging materials; semi-loose lines—neither too loose nor too tight; vertical designs or stripes; comparatively long skirts; a natural waistline; short-haired furs; large waves in your hair; hats of medium size.

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: Are black-bordered visiting cards in good taste for those in mourning?

—P. J.

Answer: Black-bordered visiting cards, writing paper and envelopes may be used by those in mourning for a member of their immediate family—such as a wife, husband, mother, father, brother or sister. But they should not be used after the death of a more distant relative. Such cards and stationery should be used only by those who actually wear mourning clothes and should be discarded when such apparel has been put away. Then all-white cards and note paper should be resumed.

What's What At A Glance

Admiral Stark Wants Strong Navy
Should Be Able To Stymie Enemies
Chairman Walsh Also Favors Idea

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Congress has a habit of "authorizing" expenditures for various purposes without "appropriating" any money to foot the bill. This happens quite frequently in connection with the matter of warship building. The vessels are voted for but no cash is provided to start work on them. We already have big additions to our fleet "authorized" but no building's being done, due to lack of the financial wherewithal.

Now there's plenty of sentiment on Capitol Hill for another "authorization" running into 10 figures.

Chairman David I. Walsh of the Senate's naval affairs committee isn't hostile to the additional "authorization." Only, he says, "First let's start construction of our previously "authorized' fighting craft; then "authorize' some more."

Admiral Harold R. Stark, the navy department's chief of operations agrees with Senator Walsh. He points out that "paper ships" can't fight, no matter how numerously and powerfully they're "authorized." What he wants is the real article.

Biggest Navy Ever

In fact, the admiral goes rather farther than the senator does. Naval officers generally do go the limit on the subject of Uncle Sam's sea-fighting strength. The senator stops with a plea for "appropriations" equal to our "authorizations." The admiral says we need a lot more "authorizations," with "appropriations" to go with them.

In short, Admiral Stark's thesis is that our navy ought to be physically (not merely "on paper") big and formidable enough to lick any imaginable combination of navies against us. He doesn't want it for offensive purposes. The stronger it is, the less likely is such a combination to tackle us.

That is to say, military strength is insurance against war; not a bid for participation in hostilities.

The question's argued both ways. Right after the 1914-18 war there was a vigorous international campaign to get all first-class powers to cut down on their armaments. It was in Congressman Fred Britten's day as chairman of the representatives' naval affairs committee.

Britten was pretty hard boiled but he was an ardent armament limitationist. His reasoning was that the only way to prevent a country from employing its naval might was to keep it from having enough of it to be worth employing. Britten didn't contend that any one country, alone, could afford to adopt such a policy. His notion was that they should do it by what diplomats call a "multilateral" compact.

The "5-5-3" Treaty

Well, such a dicker was framed up. Uncle Sam promised to hold down to a naval ratio of five versus Britain's five. Japan undertook to hold down to a basis of three to every five units of United States or British strength. France and Italy in the same ratio limited themselves to one and one-half each. It was known as the "5-5-3-1½-1½" treaty. Germany didn't count, having been so recently beaten.

The thing never worked from the beginning. Britain began by fudging surreptitiously on Uncle Sam's allowance. Japan fudged much more openly. Germany started building pocket battleships. France and Italy never paid much attention to the bargain, either.

The arrangement simply evaporated. Today last year's snows haven't got anything on it.

Then Congressman George Huddleston of Alabama observed at the time that he didn't believe the frame-up would amount to anything—unless the various signatories honestly meant it. It's abundantly evident that they didn't. Congressman Britten's plan to hamstring hostilities in advance fizzled also.

Admiral Stark suggests the chance of a four-power alliance against the United States — Germany, Russia, Japan and Italy.

Suppose, he says, that Britain and France lose? He doesn't seem to consider this an impossibility. Then, he suggests, the Eurasian quartet will be liable to gang up on us, and we'll have two oceans to fight in. On our present basis, he surmises that one ocean will be enough to keep our navy adequately occupied, leaving the other one neglected.

He proposes a two-ocean American navy—and not a "paper" navy, either.

It's rather melancholy, considering the international peace talk of about 15 years ago.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

We thought one of the nicest things that happened over the holiday season was that impromptu songfest, going on for days at the Pennsylvania Station in New York. You probably know the story—the railroad installs an organ and organist in the great cathedral-like waiting room.

Parker Watkins, an unemployed Negro, at the edge of the silent crowd, sings out in strong, clear tenor, in "Silent Night." The organist invites him to the platform to sing a solo. He sings "The Old Rugged Cross," and the crowd falteringly joins. "My Wild Irish Rose" gets everybody going. Mr. Watkins knows all the songs anybody ever heard, including all the old opera stand-bys. He is there day after day with the crowds growing larger with the stairway packed with eager listeners or singers.

The plump, smiling Mr. Watkins, happily flashing an octave of white teeth, is a master of histrionics as well as melody. With appealing gestures and rhythmic beat of his hands he lures everybody in. The majestic chamber really become a cathedral where the travelers pause as he sings "Ava Maria." And—this is a story that has everything—a radio station hears of it and it looks as if Parker Watkins, on the WPA until August, would at last have a job.

A railroad station is what the philosophers call a "time-binder." Even if it isn't desperately important that you catch the 6:30 to Washington, when the train departure signs lights up there is an urgency about it that makes it a life-and-death concern to get that train and no other. In a great city we feel this urgency perhaps more than elsewhere. We are grooved ruthlessly in our coming and going. There were no errant feet in the vast waiting room until the unemployed minstrel set us shuffling down the old back trail to "Ole Virginny," to the "Chrisholm Trail," and "South of the Border," through haunting, misty, dimly remembered vales of our folk life.

When I was a boy in Indiana and was taken occasionally to a railroad station in a big city, I loved the sonorous chant of the train announcer, making a noble litany of the names of towns and cities. It was a sort of Whitmanesque poem, and the railroads used to pick men with deep, melodious voices for the job, and there was a noble swipe at the end, as the imposing B. & O. announcer finished with "Lawrenceberg and Aurora t-r-r-a-a-ins."

The big city has made just a fading memory of all this. The warnings of train departure time flash to a silent, unseen push-button. Gates swing open to the baton of a photo-electric beam. The multitude seems silently impelled, never traveling—at least not as Robert Louis Stevenson would have us travel when he wrote, "It is better to have traveled than to have arrived." It is a pity, for noble architecture, like that of the Pennsylvania Station, seems to require, for its fulfillment a great "Te Deum," rolling from a thousand throats.

Parker Watkins, with his smile and his racial genius for song, is perhaps a challenge to the megalopolis, which would pour our dreams into a matrix of steel and stone. Perhaps he could even shake down the walls of Jericho. Such a challenge is needed, and in turning back to 1939, I believe there is much evidence—just straws in the winds, to be sure—which indicates that the human spirit is beating harder against its prison walls.

These instances may seem trivial, but I think they are pertinent: It was the New York Central railroad which arranged the schedules of one Miles Paige, a colored Pullman porter, so that he could study law at Columbia and become New York's first Negro magistrate. It was a soulless corporation which provided knotholes, for peekers of varying height, in the fence surrounding the Forty-second street airport office excavations — and which then thoughtfully put low-down holes for the dogs. It was one of the world's richest men who courteously arranged sidewalk accommodations for the "kibitzers" at Radio Center, thus founding the National Kibitzers' Club, flourishing splendidly in 1939. Naturally a train has to run on a beaten track. But, as Parker Watkins sang, "Everybody talkin' 'bout Heaven ain't goin' there," and aybe we'll be more apt to find the junction if we take time out to sing about it.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

WHAT EVERY FATHER KNOWS

I look them over, one and all,
A gangling youngster, six feet tall;
Another scarcely five feet, four,
And in between a dozen more.
Some hatted and some bare of head,
All wearing mufflers, white or red,
And all, to tell the simple truth,
Possessors of the gift of youth,
And all, as it is plain to see,
Unusually polite to me.

Some when I bid them enter in
Affect a rather sheepish grin.
Others across the threshold strut
As if they fear the door I'd shut.
Some stretch a hand for me to shake,
Which I, of course, am glad to take.
But all as they the doorway cross
Appear to sense that I'm the boss
And bold or timid, try to be
Unusually polite to me.

My state of health they ask to learn,
As if that were of some concern.
They ask, with no intent to scoff,
About the scores I make at golf.
And some to please and serve inquire,
May they throw wood upon the fire?
But I in subtlety am schooled,
Not easily can I be fooled.
I know such courtesies are had Merely because I'm Janet's dad.

Gas Station At Butler Robbed

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 25.—Butler's first armed holdup in a number of years was successfully executed Wednesday when four men held up the Pennzoil service station in Roosevelt boulevard, Pittsburgh-Butler highway, and escaped with the cash register and $50.

Fleeing in their car toward Pittsburgh, the men have eluded capture.

According to Neil P. Hauser, night attendant at the station, a car with four men in it pulled into the station at 4:15 o'clock. Hauser was instructed to fill the tank, which took 11 gallons of gasoline.

When he came around to the side of the car from the rear one of the men asked how much the bill was. Told by Hauser, he reached into his pocket, apparently for money, but came up with the revolver. On the leader's signal, the other men drew revolvers and Hauser was ordered into the station.

Chronic bronchitis can develop if your chest cold is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

See that the name Creomulsion is on the bottle and you will get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

Motion Picture Industry should be represented there. The question on every tourists' lips at last year's Fair was "Where can I see Motion Pictures made?" So Hedda Hopper suggests, "Why not show them?"

Now, Hedda Hopper is pretty close to the Industry and she says that she is certain the Stars would go up over the week-end, just for an appearance, and the money could go to the Motion Picture Relief Fund.

If the Studios would get together and send a unit to San Francisco, it would build up more good will than any million dollar campaign of which they could dream. As an example: All the miniature sets could be shown in one room, the magnificent costumes worn by the Stars in another. After every great extravagance, the Hollywood producers have a "headache" and never again may they have money enough to spend for costumes like those for "Marie Antoinette." They are as beautiful as the originals and should be preserved and seen.

And now they are making costumes for another Picture,—"Lillian Russell." They are even duplicating the $2600.00 corset with diamond fastenings which Lillian Russell wore, and strange to say, the woman who made the original, Madame Binner, is in Hollywood and is doing the present one.

Yet the Duchess of Windsor thought she had something when she put a diamond zipper on her blouse last year.

Oh, there are a great many things that the Moving Picture producers could do to make the San Francisco Fair of 1940 interesting.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Liquor Control Board Penalizes Eleven Brewers

Three Others Reprimanded — Brewers Accused Of Violating "Trade Practice"

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 25 — Eleven Pennsylvania breweries received suspensions today from the Liquor Control Board.

Three others were reprimanded and charges against them dismissed.

The suspensions are effective 12:01 a. m. Monday, January 29, if offers in compromise at $100 per day for each day of the suspension are not made with the board by that time.

The brewers were accused of violating the "trade practice" provisions of the malt beverage law, the board stated.

The evidence was secured largely through audits of books by the board's accountants and revealed, in most cases, the board stated, the unlawful giving of credit and other things of value.

The charges chiefly involved minor violations and the consequent penalties are light, the board stated, but it warned the 77 brewers of Pennsylvania that further trade irregularities will receive substantially heavier penalties.

The suspensions included:

Furhmann & Schmidt Brewing Company, Shamokin, five days; Leibert and Obert Brewery, Philadelphia, 20 days; Duquesne Brewing Company, Pittsburgh, five days each on three brewery licenses; Mt. Carmel Brewery, Inc., three days; Bethuel Brewing Company, Bethlehem, five days; Yough Brewing Company, Connellsville, five days; Lebanon Valley Brewing Company, Lebanon, five days; South Fork Brewing Company, South Fork, three days; Pittsburgh Brewing Company Pittsburgh, two days each on three brewery licenses; Fell Brewing Company, Inc. Carbondale, five days; Fort Pitt Brewing Company, Sharpsburg, five days.

Charges dismissed with reprimand:

Pittston Brewing Company, Pittston; Stegmaier Brewing Company, Wilkes-Barre, and Esslingers, Inc., Philadelphia.

The board said that the punishment should have "a salutory effect" and that it hoped that "this would be a means of helping the brewing industry as a whole in eliminating some objectionable and illegal practices."

"It should also make the industry realize," said the liquor board, "that the board is enforcing the law and thereby fulfilling its administrative responsibilities."

America Under-Developed Asserts Famous Scientist; New Industries Big Need

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 25.—America, with its 10,000,000 unemployed, is under-developed, not over-developed, in the opinion of Charles F. Kettering, research vice president of General Motors Corporation, and one of the most famous scientists in the world.

In an exclusive interview, Kettering declared that the United States has "an excess of men, an excess of money and an excess of materials—the three essentials for great development."

Pointing out that in every trade, "right aross the boards," people are out of work, he said:

"We haven't got anything new to do. Of course, there actually are a lot of things to do, but we can't get people to see it."

"Whose fault is that?" he was asked.

"You work that out," he countered.

Need New Industries

What the country needs, he implied, are new projects, new industries. He wouldn't say it himself but such new industries will be born of the inventive skill, labor and brains of men of the Kettering type.

Kettering is the man who invented the self-starter. That would be an achievement of a life time for an ordinary man. But not Kettering. He has many other boons to mankind to his credit, including the invention of the electrically operated cash register and various ignition systems for motor cars. He developed electric refrigerators. It was he who shortened the time of painting an automobile from 37 days to one hour. He was first to develop an automatically controlled airplane.

I asked Kettering to look ahead five or ten years and visualize prospective great inventions of tomorrow. He fataly declared: "I don't know."

"What we might develop tomorrow some sales managers may not like, and that's the end of that," he explained. "An invention has to be commercially valuable or you never hear much about it."

May Come Any Time

All he knew is that "inventions are on the time chart." An invention of great value to the public might come up anytime.

"How inventions get done is the least understood thing in the world," said Kettering. "You see the end but you don't see the process. That goes for inventions like Fulton's steamboat, Edison's electric light and Bell's telephone. You never see how they were invented. You only see the finished thing.

"Edison certainly had no vision of the electric light but it came forth in the process of his labor. Inventions is a process, not something sudden. It is growth, like a plant."

Kettering started talking about motor cars. Certainly there was room for improvement in the automobile—in fact, more so than in the airplane. Why? Because relatively only a couple of thousand people are concerned in the future of the airplane whereas three and one-half million people are interested in the future of the automobile.

Sees Improved Auto

He said without equivocation that the automobile of 1950 will be as much improved over the present-day car as the 1940 car is better than the automobile of 1930. He was sure that there would be just as many revolutionary developments in the automobile in the next decade as in the past one.

"I haven't the slightest idea what the 1950 car will look like," he said.

He and his research workers are at present "working on everything." They are trying to make better oil, better glass, better tires, better steel—anything that goes into the making of a better automobile.

Kettering tries to give you the impression that when he's up there in Detroit he's "just puttering around" in his laboratory. He says you never know how anything will work out but anyone of many experiments "might prove to be terrific."

Invented Self Starter

Despite the long list of inventions credited to his genius, Kettering is always remembered when the self-starter for motor cars is discussed. He admitted he was surprised when the self-starter he invented became a success.

"Why not," he said with a smile. "Every electrical engineer in America said at the time that it was no good. That was in 1910."

Kettering "didn't know a darn thing about Diesel engines" yet he made nine pounds of machinery instead of 110 pounds develop one horse power of energy. The fact he did not know anything about such engines led him to experiment with them on his yacht. He has always been unorthodox.

"I was one of these 'off the beaten path' fellows," he explained. "I'll tell you how I came to invent the self-starter. Somebody said, 'why don't you make a motor that will crank an automobile?' I didn't know it was hard to do so I went to work. And I developed the self-starting motor."

Kettering gives the impression that inventors, striving for limited objectives, gain great ones by accident. Of his own work, he remarked that if he hadn't invented the self-starter "someone right behind me would have done it."

"I'm only a mechanic," grinned Kettering.

French Perfect Relay Defense For Air Raids

Nazi Raiders Will Hit Alternating Air Squadrons And Batteries

BELIEVE DEFENSE IS IMPREGNABLE

By MERRILL MUELLER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS.—A new system of "relay" defense, alternate fighting squadrons and anti-aircraft battery areas, now protects French cities behind the scene of fighting on the Western Front.

Due to the failure of certain other systems put into effect at various parts of eastern France, and tests for the best protection, the new system is believed perfect and a guarantee against destruction of French property from Nazi air raiders.

On paper, the new scheme looks like a seven-layer cake standing on end—one layer is the combat zone for defense planes and the next layer a fighting area for the ground batteries. But this is a fancy cake, for the top half can be battery positions and the bottom half squadron positions, or vice versa, just so long as the two defending forces do not operate in the same zones for obvious reasons.

System Interchangeable

The inter-changeability of the system, shifting squadrons or batteries, or whole combat areas, presents a formidable defense against espionage as well.

It works in this manner:

Nazi bombers across the Maginot Line and its blazing fire of anti-aircraft batteries and meet the first of the defense planes. These carry the attack just to the end of their defense zone and then, while the bombers are left to the anti-aircraft batteries, "checker-jump" the enemy by climbing high and going on ahead to the next or even the third aircraft defense zone, where once again they pick up the attack against thos planes which weather the first combat lines.

Such a system builds-up the aerial defense of an objective before the enemy reaches it, and, when strength is sufficient to turn the attack by air alone, a single word from the air commander will silence ground batteries and give the defense full command of the skies. The exposed areas (where the planes are normally based) are then covered by ground batteries.

Procedure Under Fire.

The recent action of anti-aircraft batteries in the Paris vicinity without an air-raid "alert" signal by sirens, has led to condemnation of this procedure, but air ministry officials explain that in each instance, when planes reached the Paris vicinity, they knew of its flight and mission, and deliberately left it steal deep inland—then cut it off on the way home.

Bombers loaded can only go so high, and high flying airplanes, such as those which have visited this vicinity between 20,000 and 30,000 feet, were on infra-red picture missions. The Germans lost some mighty nice airplanes!

State To Send Weather Data Over Teletype

Road Conditions Will Be Made Available To Motoring Public This Winter

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Secretary of Highways I. Lamont Hughes announced today that arrangements had been completed for the transmission of information dealing with road conditions and weather reports over the Pennsylvania Motor Police teletype system.

Instructionns have been issued to the district engineers to submit their information to the nearest transmitting station of the Motor Police where it will be sent to the central office of the Department and assembled.

The change in the system of reporting road conditions during the winter is expected to facilitate the gathering of the information and also result in a saving of long distance telephone charges. Increased service to the motorist concerning the winter condition of the highways will result at an anticipated lower cost.

According to the instructions sent to the field by Secretary Hughes, when a snow or ice storm occurs the superintendent is to contact his district engineer and furnish him with a report showing the deptth of snow, temperature and condition of roads. This information will be sent by the district engineer's office to the nearest Motor Police teletype transmitting station where it is to be sent to the central office. When the complete report of the state or affected area has been compiled by attaches of the maintenance division it will be sent out over the teletype system to all police stations in the Commonwealth having receiving sets. There are approximately 113 of these receiving stations where the information will be made available to motor clubs. In addition the Department will release stories on winter road conditions to the press and radio stations.

Thirty Thousand Farmers In State Get U. S. Payments

About $2,300,000 In Federal Conservation Payments In State In 1939

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 25.—Approximately 30,000 Pennsylvania farmers have received $2,300,000 in federal conservation payments for 1939, it was announced today by the state agricultural conservation committee.

Thus far, the committee said, nearly 45,000 applications for payments have been received from Pennsylvania farmers and sent to Washington.

It was estimated that 70,000 applications would be received by the committee.

It was disclosed further that 153 farmers who suffered wheat losses in 1939 were reimbursed by the federal government. The farmers were paid $5,540, th cash equivalent of 7,749 bushels of wheat lost. The reimbursements were based on the market price.

Meanwhile, the committee pointed out that it was cooperating with county agricultural committees in preparing tobacco, potato, and commercial vegetable allotments for 1940. Wheat allotments were sent out some time ago.

Farmers were cautioned against making application for superphosphate, under the grants-of-aid plan, during 1940 unless they intended to use it on pasturelands. No other use of the chemical will be allowed, the committee said.

No Pension Being Paid To Governor

Not Drawing Pension For Time He Served As Superior Court Judge

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 25.—No pension is being paid Gov. Arthur H. James by the commonwealth for the time he served as a superior court judge, the state retirement board revealed today.

The governor, upon entering office, continued to pay five per cent of his salary into the fund and has accumulated $13,122.06 from which he will draw pension following his retirement as a state office-holder.

Mrs. Margot Kyle, secretary of the retirement board, emphatically denied that the governor had been drawing pension for the time he served on the superior court bench.

Under the state retirement law, she pointed out, the chief executive could not be both a payer and a receiver from the fund at the same time.

Retirement board officials declined to guess how much the governor would be entitled to in monthly pension upon retirement, pointing out that "too many factors" entered into the figuring, such as age, time of retirement, and other reasons.

The governor would have a choice of four options, under the retirement law and it was believed he would receive in the neighborhood of $800 or $900 monthly.

Former Chief Justice John W. Kephart, of the state supreme court, who resigned effective January 1, choose a retirement option paying him $695.87 a month until his death, after which his beneficiary will receive "the remainder of his accrued annuity in a lump sum".

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Saves You Much Money, and It's So Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar in 1 cup water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold promptly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

CALVARY TABERNACLE MESSAGES INTEREST

Remarkable interest is being shown in the mid-winter series of evangelistic meetings now in their first week at the Calvary Gospel Tabernacle, Vogan street, on the East Side. Evangelist John Raymond Hand, formerly a teacher in high school and college, and a convice in Leavenworth prison, gave a dynamic message last night, using as his subject "Why I Believe Christ Is the Son or God." The subject announced for this evening's service is "Why I Believe Christ Was Raised from the Dead." Fourteen years ago the late Calvin Coolidge gave Mr. Hand his freedom.

State Supreme Court Considers Lawrence's Plea

International News Service Staff

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25. — The State Supreme Court today was considering David L. Lawrence's plea for a postponement in his trial, scheduled to open Monday, on charges of conspiracy to assess the public payroll for political contributions during the Earle administration.

The chairman of the Pennsylvania Democratic committee and six other Democrats were indicted in the Dauphin County Court in 1938. Through his attorneys Lawrence brought his request before the high tribunal 24 hours after Judge Howard W. Hughes at Harrisburg refused to grant the group a month's continuance.

"We owe it to the public to complete this as soon as possible," Judge Hughes stated in denying the postponement.

The paper added that belief Russia would respect the Red Cross was "naive and unfounded" and that the sign of international protection in Finland was a danger to "those it should protect."

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

INFECTED TONSILS

As I pointed out here a few days ago, a series of head colds in a child is often a warning of infected tonsils. If these warnings are not heeded, if the diseased organ is allowed to remain in the throat, what happens?

Well, the effect of a chronically diseased tonsil on the body is fairly obvious when you consider that situated in the throat as the tonsils are, every breath of air, every bite of food passes over them, permitting them to distribute their poisons all through the body. Naturally such a focus of infection can do a great deal of harm in any person, young or old. In a child it can be more dangerous than in an adult, particularly to the heart.

A great many cases of rheumatic fever with associated heart disease are brought on by repeated infections in the upper respiratory passages. These infections will almost certainly be cut down if the tonsils are removed, but for the measure to be as effective as necessary, the diseased tonsils must be removed before the signs of the rheumatic fever appear. If removed after the heart has been damaged, you may prevent further damage, but you cannot repair that injury the heart has already suffered.

The kidneys are also prone to be affected by diseased tonsils and repeated head colds. Nephritis is nearly always preceeded by an acute infection of the throat or ears. Removal of the tonsils often is all that is needed to put a stop to these attacks.

When any child has an acute infection of the throat, then he is menaced by a pneumonia. Constant colds induced by diseased tonsils can likewise affect the lungs with other serious complications.

I think it is unnecessary to cite other dangers. Most people know now the menaces that lurk in infected tonsils. They realize that they should come out. What they need to know is that they must watch for and detect the first warning that the tonsils are chronically diseased.

I hope parent's won't get the impression that I am advocating the wholesale removal of tonsils from children. Nothing could be further from the fact. I don't believe a single tonsil should come out until it is undoubtedly infected. A few years ago it became fashionable to have your child's tonsils out whether they were bad or not. But today not many medical men will advise their removal unless they are satisfied there is no alternative.

If the doctor decides to take them out, it is because he knows that not only are they useless to your child, but they are actually a threat to his health.

I'll never forget the day Emilie, Yvonne, Marie, Annette and Cecile went under the knife and had their tonsils out. Of course, I didn't try it. I had the best doctors from the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children come up and do the job. I have taken out tonsils, but only when I had to do it. I know it is looked on as a minor operation today, but still it is work for a surgeon to do, not a country doctor like myself. I hope my days of cutting out tonsils on the kitchen table with an oil lamp for illumination are over. I didn't enjoy the operations any more than the patients did.

Discount Flood Fears In State

No Reason For Undue Alarm, Although Many Ice Jams And Packs Are In Rivers

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 25.—Though admitting the weather was "entirely unpredictable beyond a two or three day period," Secretary of Forests and Water G. Albert Stewart today discounted fear of floods in Pennsylvania.

"I can see no reason for undue alarm," Stewart asserted. "The present ice situation is no more serious than attends any prolonged freezing period."

Ice Jams In Spots

Stewart declared that there were ice jams and theats of ice jams "in scattered spots, a condition common to the areas now affected, and to the season ever since the world was created," but insisted "there are no conditions in any way similar to the conditions of the time of the 1536 flood to cause any alarm."

He added that present conditions may continue "as long as the forces of nature combine to create ice".

"Emphasis has been placed on the threat of floods," Stewart stated. "Water is a necessary component part of a flood and the fact is our streams are away below average and normal levels.

"Today and for the next two days the general weather forecast for Pennsylvania is snow with falling temperatures. Only a thaw or prolonged rain from Saturday on could create any condition warranting unusual concern."

Holland Plans To Resist Invasion

Neutral Until Some Nation Starts To March In, Then Will Fight

(International News Service)

THE HAGUE, Jan. 25.—Holland is determined to remain neutral in Europe's war, but will take up arms against any invasion, regardless of which side it comes from, Foreign Minister E. N. Van Kleffens told parliament today.

Winding up the debate on the suggestion of Winston Churchill, British first lord of the admiralty, that Holland and Belgium enter the war on the side of the Allies, Van Kleffens said:

"The entire nation stands behind this government on its policy of strict neutrality.

"The government will not be diverted from its course.

"We have a duty toward all of Europe. Should Holland and Belgium enter this war, it would be vastly complicated and extended.

"But whoever takes up arms against us will be met with armed force."

Van Kleffens sharply denied that the Netherlands or Belgium had any moral obligations under the league of nations covenant to enter the conflict.

Catholic Chapel Proposal Made For New Super-Highway

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan 25—A chapel for Catholic travelers at the half-way point on Pennsylvania's new "dream highway" was proposed today by Father Sebastian Urnauer, pastor of St. John the Baptist Catholic church at New Baltimore, Somerset county.

The new Harrisburg-Pittsburgh turnpike, expected to be completed next July, cuts through lands of the church's congregation, established over 100 years ago.

Father Sebastian asked Walter A. Jones, a chairman of the turnpike commission, to erect the chapel along the right-of-way of the new tunnel road in exchange for land taken for the turnpike. He offered land for the chapel if the commission would erect the structure.

The priest held New Baltimore provided an ideal spot in the mountains where Catholics might rest and worship.

Mine Workers Would Abandon Dies Committee

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 25.—Caustically criticizing the Dies committee, the United Mine Workers of America today adopted a resolution urging discontinuance of the committee recently reauthorized by Congress to continue its probe of un-American activities.

The resolution, a combination of a series attacking the Dies committee, was adopted by a viva voce vote. It urged that funds allocated to Congressman Dies' group be turned over to the LaFollette civil liberties committee.

Awaiting action of the U. M. W. biennial convention were 47 resolutions from locals in nine states, endorsing President Roosevelt for a third term, this despite an attack upon the Roosevelt administration by John L. Lewis, U. W. president, at yesterday's session.

Tokyo Press Displays Interest In Arrest Of American Correspondent

(International News Service)

TOKYO, Jan. 25.—The Tokyo press displayed keen interest today in the arrest of James R. Young, far eastern manager of International News Service, who has been detained since Sunday on undisclosed charges.

While representatives of the United States embassy continued their attempts to obtain Young's release the Tokyo newspaper "Shimbun No Shimbun" (Journal of Journals) indicated that the arrest was linked up with the correspondent's recent lengthy tour of China.

Statements made by Young to a group of 50 Japanese businessmen upon his return and in dispatches cabled to the United States upon the alleged inefficiency of the Japanese army in China were responsible for his detention, the newspaper said.

"Expression of such views might have led to the arrest," Shimbun No Shimbun declared.

"Such views would appear to be inadmissable, even if held by a foreigner."

The foreign editors of the Tokyo newspapers Hochi and Yomiuri Shimbun also are undergoing interrogation, the paper declared, "because of their close relations" and the fact that Young filed dispatches to them from Chungking, the new capital of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

(Editor's note: In a series of articles cabled to New York at conclusion of the China tour and prior to his arrest, Young set forth in detail the difficulties being encountered by Japanese forces in China, stressing the amazing resistance of the revivified Chinese forces. In one of the dispatches, he predicted that Japan would fail in its efforts to create a unified China under the "puppet government" headed by Wang Ching-Wei.)

Young was arrested by members of the Tokyo municipal police who, according to Shimbun No Shimbun entered his apartment at the Imperial hotel and carted off a motor car full of confiscated articles. His wife has not been able to communicate with him directly, it was said.

(Editor's note: Mrs. Young cabled New York headquarters of International News Service that she had been permitted to visit him and that he had been in contact with United States embassy authorities. They also were permitted to send him food and other small luxuries.)

Farley's Views On Third Term Idea Prove Puzzling

Address By Postmaster General May Be His Potential Bid For Nomination

(International News Service)

WINSTON SALEM, N. C., Jan. 25.—Postmaster General James A. Farley's Chamber of Commerce address last night urging a middle of the road policy on national problems was regarded in some political circles today as a potential opening bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Yet, the declaration of Farley, who is also Democratic national chairman, that he would never sacrifice his "first loyalty" to the national welfare "upon the altar of party expediency or party fealty" left his views on a third term for President Roosevelt as much of a puzzle as ever.

It was interpreted by some to mean that Farley would bolt his party if he believed a third term for Mr. Roosevelt was inimical to national welfare. Others believed contrariwise that it meant Farley would fight the anti-third term tradition even at the cost of wrecking the Democratic party if convinced the nation needed Mr. Roosevelt for another four years.

Farley said there were five factors in the American industrial organism, the employers, employes, stockholders, consumers and government, and all should cooperate to insure national prosperity. The government should act only as "umpire," he asserted, taking a rap at the more rabid New Dealers by declaring he had no sympathy with the theory that government and business are natural enemies.

British Envoy Makes Mistake

Fails To Quell Tokyo Public Indignation Over Asama Maru Incident

(International News Service)

TOKYO, Jan. 25—As members of a Japanese patriotic society hurled stones through the windows of the British consulate, British Ambassador Sir. Robert L. Craigie tried tonight to quell Nipponese public indignation over the Asama Maru incident—but apparently he only increased Anglo-Japanese fraction.

With a hint that negotiations might result in release of the 21 German youths taken from the Asama Maru while the liner was en route from San Francisco to Japan, Sir Robert said the whole international row resulted from misapprehension.

The ambassador, however, made the mistake of releasing his statement through the Japanese press, and his action merely fanned the ire of the foreign office.

Sir Robert, said an official spokesman, proved "unfriendly in appealing to the Japanese nation before Britain formally replied to the Japanese protest."

China Has Ten Million Men In Huge New Army

Army Secretly Trained For Over Year To Attack Japs

GREATEST ARMY EVER RAISED

By SYDNEY CRAWFORD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Jan. 25.—A new Chinese army of ten million men, secretly assembled, lies hidden somewhere in China awaiting a gigantic offensive against the Japanese.

This claim is attributed to Dr. Sun Fo, president of the Chinese Legislative Yuan, who recently arrived in England on an unofficial visit.

In an interview Dr. Sun declared that this army, which would be the greatest army ever raised in one country, has been secretly conscripted and trained in several different parts of the Western provinces of China for the past fifteen months.

He declared that only Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek knows where this gigantic army lies hidden or when the big offensive will commence.

Intensive preparations are being made. Secret munition factories are scattered over China's vast territory to avoid destruction by Japanese bombs.

Camouflaged amidst the mountains, valleys, waterfalls and streams, small factories carry out a system of small-scale mass production which has been evolved by the Chinese.

Invisible From Air

"They are so situated that they are completely invisible from the air," Dr. Sun Fo declared.

Stating that the European war is scarcely interfering with the flow of essential supplies to China he revealed that American supplies are arriving unimpeded through Burma, the "back door of China," and thence along the great "peasant road" which millions of Chinese built with their bare hands.

There supplies are mostly gasoline, steel, farm machinery and trucks.

The trade treaty with Russia which as negotiated and signed by Dr. Sun Fo in Moscow last June is now operating on an exchange system. In return for delivery of tea and several valuable metals China receives munitions and machinery from Russia.

"The Soviet Union has given us more help and more material than any other source," Dr. Sun is claimed to have stated.

Officials of the Works Progress Administration are engaged at the present time in a discussion with the county commissioners concerning the operation of county sponsored WPA projects. The particular case at issue is the sewing project in New Castle.

The commissioners have always felt they should have some person on the project who had been designated by them. For the past year they have paid the salary of a clerk in the distribution office whose job it was to distribute the clothing manufactured by the WPA women, to needy persons.

The WPA now claims the right to take over every element of the project, the commissioners being given the right to provide the money for rent and certain materials.

This the commissioner feels is unfair, their attitude being that if they provide the money they should have some small representation on the project. The matter is not settled yet and further conferences will be held.

County Commissioner Joseph F. Travers was not at his desk on Wednesday, being called to the hospital where Mrs. Travers underwent an operation.

In the office of the prothonotary and clerk of courts two actions in divorce have been started.

Julia C. Pagley of New Castle, asks a divorce from her husband Harry Pagley on the grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities to person. They were married August 8, 1939.

Warren McMillin asks a divorce from his wife Maurene McMillin on the grounds of desertion. Mr. McMillin who is a resident of New Castle avers that his wife deserted him on July 18, 1936 and that her home is in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Various kinds of music have been heard in court room number one, most of it chin music but a sweeter variety was heard Wednesday. The chorus of the Union township high school, 62 in number, directed by Leroy Rowley presented several chorals for the county school directors convention. The chorus is well trained, well balanced and delighted the directors. Jay Rudolph, principal of the school modestly suggests that it is one of the best in the state. All of which seems true.

Since registrations opened up again in the permanent registration commission, 41 voters have affiliated themselves with the Republican party and 26 with the Democratic. Thirty-five have changed from Democratic to Republican, one No Party to Republican, three Republican to Democrat.

Scout Head Has Returned From National Event

Miss Helen MacLean Selected With Group Of 14 Others For Course

Miss Helen MacLean, New Castle Girl Scout director, has returned to her duties at the local council office after attending a national council conducted course on day camping activities. The conference was held at Camp Macy, near Brier Cliff, N. Y.

Miss MacLean was honored by receiving the invitation to attend this conference. There were 14 directors from all parts of the country who took part in what Miss MacLean termed a very worthwhile program.

Miss Margaret Chapman of the National Girl Scout Council in New York City, was in charge of the conference. According to Miss MacLean, the New Castle day camp compared favorably with others about the country, but outranked many of them for the number of out-door activities.

Miss MacLean plans to call a meeting of the local camp committee in the near future, for the purpose of discussing the findings of the day camp conference.

Prosperous Era In This Country Seen

Sees United States On Threshold Of Greatest Period

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 25. — The United States "stands on the threshold of the greatest prosperity and well-being the world has ever known," predicted Congressman Michael J. Kirwan of the 19th district of Ohio as he talked of prospects for 1940.

"This nation at peace," Kirwan said, "today stands on the threshold of the greatest era of well-being in history for its people if we will fight together to get it.

"The mills are working better, the stores are selling more, people are getting more of the staples and enjoying more of the luxuries of life now than at any time in a decade.

"Furthermore," the congressman continued, "the great surge of industry and commerce can continue if we can all put our shoulders to the wheel.

"I feel we can look forward with a great deal of hope in 1940. In 1939, the national income rose four and a half billion dollars over 1938, and merchants and industrialists in the 19th district told me they have done the greatest business ever in 1939."

Kirwan is a candidate for re-election.

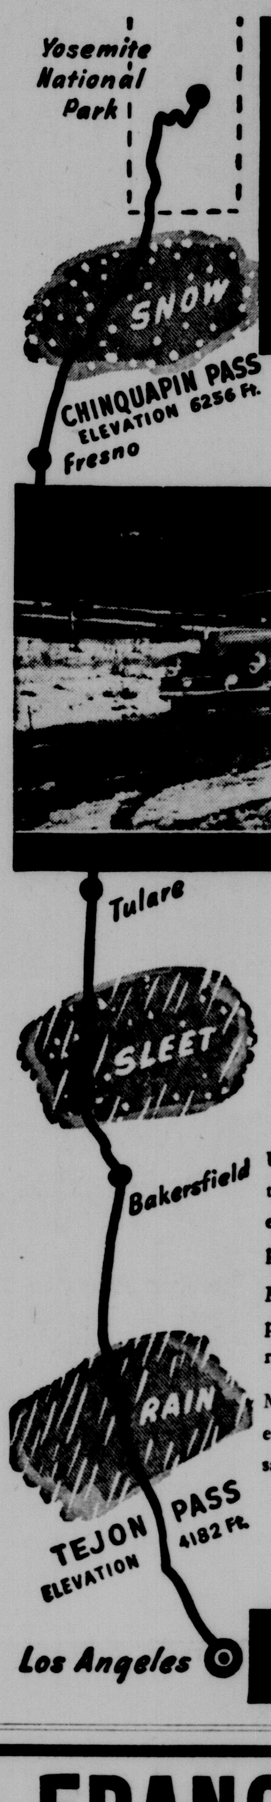
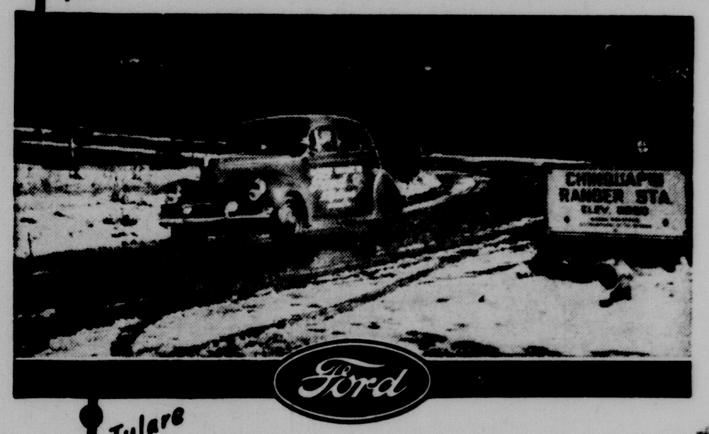
Ford-built Cars Set Sensational Records in Gilmore Yosemite Economy Run!



Punishing 306.5 mile test through city traffic, over winding mountain roads in rain, sleet and snow proved that of all standard-equipped competing cars, the Ford V-8 and the Mercury 8 are the most economical to operate in their respective price classes.



FORD V-8, 24.92 MILES PER GALLON

Starting in a drizzling rain from Gilmore Stadium, Los Angeles, this 85 h.p. Ford V-8 stock sedan used less gas in climbing two mountain ranges in stormy weather than any other standard-equipped car in its price class.

The Ford V-8, without special equipment, averaged 24.92 miles per gallon—2.05 miles per gallon better than one car in its price class and 2.38 miles per gallon better than another.

MERCURY 8, 23.76 MILES PER GALLON

Mercury 8

Up the winding road through the high Sierras the Mercury races to a record of unheard-of economy and the undisputed leadership of its price class.

Mercury's meteoric rise in one short year to a place among the first ten best sellers is the result of sheer ability to out-perform other cars.

Mercury performance in the Gilmore Yosemite economy run sustains every claim made by thousands of enthusiastic owners.

LINCOLN-ZEPHYR V-12 19.9 MILES PER GALLON

Lincoln Zephyr V-12

The most startling revelation of the Gilmore Yosemite run is that the overdrive axle-equipped Lincoln-Zephyr, the only 12-cylinder car in its price class, showed the best gasoline mileage—19.9 miles per gallon, 2.78 miles per gallon better than the record of the car placing second.

19.9 miles per gallon with all the smoothness and thrilling performance that the Lincoln-Zephyr's V-type 12-cylinder engine makes possible! Thus Lincoln-Zephyr adds economy leadership to style leadership!

The 1940 Gilmore Yosemite run under strict A.A.A. supervision has provided impartial proof of performance. It is evidence upon which to base your selection of a car in any one of three price classes. For beauty and comfort plus economy, see your Ford, Mercury or Lincoln-Zephyr dealer!

Armstrong Wins From Montanez In Ninth Round

Seeks Bout With Garcia In Attempt To Win Fourth Title

MONTANEZ RECEIVES UNMERCIFUL BEATING

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—With his record as of today showing 15 successful welterweight title defenses, including the one of last night in which Pedro Montanez looked very much like a close shave in the abbatoir, hammering Henry Armstrong is looking now toward a chance at the world middleweight championship.

Having whipped Ceferino Garcia before, Armstrong figures he could and probably would do it again to become the first man ever to hold four pugilistic crowns. He already boasts of whatever distinction may go with being a triple champion, although his status in this respect has been reduced, through retirement as featherweight champion and loss of the lightweight title to Lou Ambers.

As far as the welterweight championship is concerned it seems likely that he will rule that division indefinitely, and by this time his 147-pound defenses have become nothing more than a series of foregone conclusions, mere gestures against men who can't even win from him now that he is on the downgrade.

Scaling 139 3-4 pounds, or top weight for him, Armstrong last night banged Montanez all about the premises before an overflow crowd of 19,157 packed all the way into the aisles of Madison Square Garden and finally won after 47 seconds of the ninth round in a scheduled 15-rounder with Montanez cut and battered and bleeding, groggy and helpless to the point of being unable to lift his hands when Referee Billy Cavanaugh stepped in and halted it on a technical knockout.

14 Other Victims

Thus Montanez succumbed just as 14 other welters have as Armstrong went about the business of making more welter title defenses than all 11 previous champions of the division combined.

The champion was four and five and six to one favorite in lengthening odds going into the ring, with even money that Montanez wouldn't finish, and, in truth, Montanez went as far as he did simply because he proved to skeptics that he is and was equipped with a fighting heart. He was really pounded before it was over with.

As early as the fourth round Montanez was bowled over twice, once for a short count and, upon arising, for seven. Meanwhile his right eye had been slashed open and Armstrong kept it boiling with blood by liberal use of his shoulder through several of the remaining rounds.

In the eighth, Armstrong clipped Montanez with a wide, swishing right hand which stunned the challenger, then the champion leaped in and flattened him with a left hook as the gong sounded. Montanez' seconds carried their man to his corner, only to see him take an unmerciful battering in the next before the thing was stopped.

Montanez scaled 144½ and looked strong and quite fierce at the outset, going so far as to put a mouse on Armstrong's left eye as early as the second—but from the third on he was scarcely more than a target.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Walter Hosterman of State College was elected captain of the Nittany Lions' 1940 soccer team. He has been halfback for two years. Penn State is the possessor of the Eastern Intercollegiate Soccer championship.

Plans are afoot for a $20,000 world championship three-cushion billiard tournament, to start in Chicago, March 11. . . . It required two extra periods for Indiana Teachers to beat St. Vincent College, in basketball, 44-43, at Latrobe.

Jim Lawther, son of Coach John Lawther, of Penn State, takes his floor game seriously as a member of State College High. A senior, he has paced the Little Lions to their fourth straight Central State League victory.

Henry Cooper, Brooklyn heavyweight, will provide what Pittsburgh fans believe, a test for Harry Bobo, colored heavyweight in Pittsburgh tonight. . . . Johnny Rizzo has returned a 1940 contract to play for the Pirates.

Ex-President Hoover To Speak at Baseball Writers Banquet

M'GOVERN SIGNS DODGER CONTRACT

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Sights and cites along the big stem today. . . .

Here's Herbert Hoover . . . who says he is going to talk on baseball. . . . At the annual dinner of the Baseball Writers Association Feb. 4. . . . "They tell me Jim Farley is going to sit beside me," said the former president of the U. S. A., smilingly. . . . "Great fellow, Jim, although of course, it's too bad he's with the wrong party. . . ."

Here's a real hot tip . . . right from the feed box . . . the ex-president will make some joshing remarks about the time the fans razzed him at the world series. . . . He's a real fan. . . . Goes to games when few recognize him . . . and the sports writers have gone overboard for him . . . because he's a regular guy.

That hustling little chap is Artie McGovern . . . famous trainer . . . showing a new contract to condition the Dodgers . . . at twice the stipend he got last year.

Never the Same

"Babe Ruth was the toughest bird I ever tried to get in shape," says Artie. . . . "And Jack Dempsey the easiest. . . . Fighters are always easier than ball players . . . because they know what will happen to them if they are not in condition.

"Men are easier to train than women . . . because men train faithfully for good health . . . women train only when they're getting stout . . . and bankers and big corporation executives are best of all . . . but the brokers are too easy going . . . and too many of them are play boys. . . ."

Here's Lew Diamond . . . the roving promoter-matchmaker . . . arguing that Joe Louis' victims are never the same . . . after they've sampled Joe's pet liver punch . . . and cites Schmeling, Lazer, Ramage, Baer, Carnera, Galento, Lewis, Farr, Mann and Ettore . . . as samples of lads who didn't do their health any good by meeting the dark destroyer. . . .

Runners Coming Over

And here's Dan (AAU) Ferris. . . . Wondering if Hugo Quist will be around to welcome Paavo Nurmi and Taisto Maeki . . . the fleet Finn . . . next week . . . Broadway hasn't seen Quist for two years . . . he's the silent hombre who brought Nurmi, Sonja Henie and other stars over here . . . (and this is confidential to you) . . . also secretly managed several of our own leading milers. . . .

Which reminds me that when Quist brought Nurmi over he approached the late Tex Rickard . . . to stage a race in the Garden . . . Rickard, interested only in fighters, said nothing doing but offered to let Quist have the Garden for a thousand dollars . . . you may recall what happened . . . Nurmi sold out the Garden . . . and Rickard hunted up Quist. . . .

"Listen," said Tex . . . "Hereafter me and you is partners . . ." and so they were . . . selah.

CITES REGULATION NEED FOR FISHING IN GREAT LAKES

CHICAGO—Federal regulation or international understanding will be necessary to save commercial fishing on the Great Lakes unless the Lake states can agree on regulatory measures to conserve the supply of fish, General Manager Kenneth A. Reid of the Izaak Walton League holds.

"Under the present system of state control," Reid said, "wholesale seining during the spawning season has resulted in the commercial production of trout, walleye pike, perch, whitefish and chub becoming almost a memory on our Great Lakes.

"Many of the species have decreased as much as 90 per cent. Unless immediate steps are taken to secure more uniform laws and cooperation for the commercial seining on international waters; the taking of herring will also be a thing of the past.

DiMaggio Returns Contract Unsigned

Yankee Centerfielder Wants More Than Salary Of $27,500 Received Last Year

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25.—Instructed to keep his financial dickerings out of the press, Joe DiMaggio today returned unsigned the New York Yankees' first proffered contract for 1940, laconically explaining the offer was "not far away."

DiMaggio, who received $27,500 playing centerfield for the world series winners last year, would not reveal the figures contained in the current offer from Ed. Barrow, Yankees' business manager.

The North Beach restaurant impressario indicated, however, that his American league leading batting average of .381 during 1939 and being voted the "most valuable player" award, entitled him to a considerable salary boost.

Seeking to avoid the impression he might again be the No. 1 big league holdout, Joe Declared:

"Barrow and myself will not have any trouble reaching an agreement."

Giants-Boosters To Play Friday

Friday night at the Polish Falcon Hall the undefeated Cozy Giants made up of former New Castle High and college stars will play the strong Mt. Jackson Boosters. The game will be a preliminary to the Falcon-Salem Sanitary game.

Coach Joe Brincko hopes to have his strongest lineup available for the game. It is altogether likely that Johnny "Feller" Carik, captain of the Giants who has been ill with an attack of grippe for the past week and a half will be able to play Friday night. The former high school star is one of the best basketball players in the city and the Giants have missed his services in the past few games. "Shim" Balla., "Maka" Budai, "Lefty" Vignovich, Balin and others make up the Giants roster.

The Mt. Jackson Boosters are also made up of former Mt. Jackson High stars and are reported as having a fast team and one that may worry the Giants.

Sports World Ramblings

Local Ring Meteors—Youngstown fans are still talking about "Chuck" Arkett's startling victory over Sunny Horne, Niles' blue ribbon boxer. West Pittsburg's "Chuck" gave the Ohio flash a thorough going over. In the second, Arkett pancaked Horne for a short count. Although he lacks ring "oomph", Arkett is a rugged hombre. His somewhat odd style puzzles his foes no end. Arkett, who is married and belongs to the papa fraternity, trains religiously. As a result, he can step into the ring on a moment's notice.

Hammering Frankie Moran, who dishes out a mean left paw, scored a third round kayo over Louis Ross on the same show. Moran's boring in style scored for him a victory over fandom...Billy Reale, Princeton's contribution to fistiana, dropped a decision to Joe Saunders. Despite the fact that he recovered recently from an attack of the flu, Reale put up a slam-bang party and looked good....Johnny Dean has been matched to fight Billy Bengal, Detroit pride, in Youngstown, February 6. Dean is tuning up at the Jeff A. C. gym. His chief sparring partner is Mickey Rubin

Local Niblets—Johnny Cabas is completing a star-studded athletic career at Mt. Union. Cabas gets his sheepskin in June...Ray Bombyk and Lindy Lauro, who wound up their athletic chores at New Castle High against Butler, will likely finish the cage season playing with local independent quintets...Continued improvement is reported in the condition of Jewie Coen, popular local sportsman, who has been on sick list for some time....Some of New Castle's top ranking ten pin bowlers contemplate competing in the coming American Bowling Congress billed for Detroit.

Diamond Scraps — Philadelphia was the only club in the National to wind up in the "red" last year... Beau Bell, now a Cleveland player, is ranked as one of the best dressed major league players in the game... "Bill" McKechnie, who admires control in a pitcher, grabbed Joe Beggs from the Yanks because of that. 'Beggs, a valley product who used to heave the javelin at Geneva, has pitched 1,018 innings of professional ball and has walked but 248 batters, an average of one free ticket per 4.11 innings.

Dizzy Dean is undoubtedly the highest priced bit of baseball machinery in the Cub factory. Besides the $185,000 which the Cubs unfolded for the Great Gabbo, Dean has received close to $50,000 in salary. Diz has won only 13 games, close to $4,000 per victory...There's only one way of getting a ticket for Cincinnati's opener—via the scalper system. Tickets for the lid lifter were sold out before Christmas... First sacker Sturm of Kansas City, now the property of the Yanks, was involved in some 109 assists last year. FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

This country of ours is pretty well divided up when it comes to male and female population . . . in almost every state of the union the number is almost equal . . . in some states the male population is greater than the female population . . . but still we find parents spending thousands of dollars annually to announce their daughters . . . in other words telling the male population that their girl is ready to be married and to the one with the biggest bank account . . . maybe that explains why 11 million men are single, against 8 million women . . . what this country needs is a movement to announce husbands . . . large parties . . . announcing that Johnnie is ready to be married and only to the girl that has enough money in her own name to keep him the rest of his life. One is about as reasonable as the other . . . but what it all leads to is this . . . some people will go to no ends to receive publicity . . . even if they must get married three or four times.

To the one who called one evening last week . . . after due consideration we suggest you use the columns surrounding this column. We will be glad to help all we can.

Here's a new twist . . . at least to our knowledge. It concerns panhandlers . . . so that leaves you out . . . instead of standing out on the cold street, one was found standing in the lobby of the Post Office playing his game . . . yes my friends on federal property.

* * *

Those who plan to attend the biggest social event of the season . . . the Charity Ball . . . (to be held at the Field Club on February 3rd) . . . will find themselves in very pleasant surroundings . . . the entire Club is being decorated as the big top of a circus. Yes, my friends the entire theme of the party will depict a day at the circus . . . and there is nothing finer, to make a party gay, than the atmosphere of a circus . . . clowns, pink lemonade, crackerjack and in this case, the people in attendance moving gracefully around the dance floor in their sparkling evening clothes . . . oh my, what an evening . . . will you be there?. The money derived from this gala event will be used to make things brighter for the sick during their stay in the Jameson Hospital . . . let's all go to the circus, we mean the Charity Ball, one week from Saturday night.

Stock Market Is Reactionary

Firm Tone Is Displayed At Start — Trading Contracts Considerably

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—The stock market turned reactionary today after displaying a firm tone at the start. Trading contracted considerably.

Aviations scored gains at the opening, but these were lost and small declines substituted later when the general list sagged.

Dealings in steels were restrained by the Bethlehem board meeting after the close today at which earnings were to be reported and dividend action taken. Despite bullish forecasts regarding the meeting, Bethlehem was down fractionally. U. S. Steel lost almost a point.

Allied chemical on one transaction gained a point, but other chemicals were mixed.

U. S. Gypsum was another strong spot and rose 2 points on a few transactions.

Auto shares dipped after a steady start. Rails followed a similar pattern. Utilities were firm and moderately active.

Bomb Attacks Fail To Break Finn's Morale

By COURTENAY TERRETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HELSINKI, Jan. 25.—There is fighting on four fronts in Finland today — hard, tough man-to-man fighting.

But this is the story of the fifth front—the cities, towns, villages and farms where war is only one-sided, where there is no chance of fighting back.

The joint purpose of this warfare is destruction and demoralization, and it is incessant. Flights of 200 Russian bombing planes three or four times daily are common and people sometimes have to pass hours of each day underground.

The first objective of the attackers has been fairly successful. There has been great material damage and some places have been almost "bombed out," although curiously enough there has been little dislocation of essential services and manufactures.

But in their second objective, the Russians have been a complete failure.

Bombing only hardens the Finnish morale and the defenseless civilian population—many persons living in forests in the daytime and in households only during the night—is carrying on in cold fury, fighting fires, repairing the damage wrought, manufacturing and unloading, distributing and forwarding the material that flows into the country daily.

Between 8 a. m. and 9 p. m. the day before yesterday I went through five air raid alarms in as many different places.

Extraordinary Discipline

Conditions varied widely, but the same extraordinary discipline prevailed throughout.

Leaving Ekenas at 8 a. m., which is daybreak in Finland, and chauffeured by K. G. Granberg, general sales manager of the Chrysler Corporation and one of Finland's best known automobile racers who is now mobilized, I soon arrived in the town of Salo, which normally has a population of 8,000.

The only living sights were one forlorn dog and a traffic policeman—who held up his hand as our car hove into view! Granberg wanted to push on but the policeman refused to allow us, maintaining that moving objects would aid the bombers overhead.

Hidden inside houses, hundreds of evacuees from the Viborg region filled Salo.

Suddenly the air raid siren screamed and into the deserted streets poured children accompanied by schoolmistresses. They slipped and slid along the ice and pelted one another with snowballs until at length I asked one of the teachers whether they knew what the alarm was for.

"Yes, they do," she said. "But they don't worry about it. They've even invented a new form of blind man's buff to play in the air raid shelters."

From Salo we dashed on to Abo, often making 75 miles an hour on the straightaway and ploughing up clouds of snow as we skidded around corners. Right at a spot on the highway where three bombs had dropped a short while previously one of our tires picked up a shell fragment and Granberg changed it in record time to the accompaniment of profanity in Finnish and Swedish, while I chipped in old-fashioned Montana mule-skinner language.

Entering Abo, we were constantly redirected by police from streets where workmen were busy repairing damage. These people were like ants reconstructing a damaged ant-hill.

A bomb will drop, digging a 20-foot deep crater in the middle of main street, but the moment the "all clear" whistle sounds, the people rush out to fill it up, repair broken water mains and re-string telephone and telegraph wires knocked down by the blast.

In the harbor of Abo, the moment some waiting ship is damaged, she is towed to the quayside, unloaded and her cargo distributed even as salvage gangs work upon repairs.

ASKS PERMISSION TO TRAIN 6,000 NAVAL AVIATORS

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Rear Admiral John H. Tower, chief of naval aeronautics, asked the house naval affairs committee for permission to start training 6,000 naval aviators.

The navy at present, he said, has only 849 such officers.

Committee Chairman Vinson (D) Georgia, announced that as soon as hearings on the present expansion bill are completed, he will open hearings on this request.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

This is a Fourth of July story.

It is a success story about fireworks in Pennsylvania.

Many attempts were made to pass a law banning fireworks.

Individuals and organized medicine backed the plan.

The law finally passed and fireworks were not sold in 1939.

So what?

So there were no deaths July 4, 1939, as against six in 1938.

There were 85 injuries against 1,702 in 1938.

Yet there were 13 killed by fireworks in the United States in 1939.

And there were 5,560 injuries, including blindness and crippling.

Why kill and maim children in celebrating Independence Day?

It's more patriotic, and more fun, to prevent fireworks accidents.

TESTS AT WORLD-FAMOUS HOSPITAL reveal one of greatest discoveries ever made about

CONSTIPATION

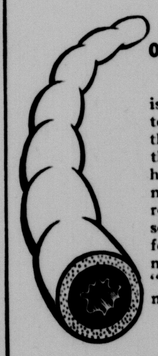
16 Scientists Find Way To Actually Produce Nature's Own Daily, Gentle, Pleasant Bowel Action!

MILLIONS OF SUFFERERS

from indigestion, sick headaches, sallow muddy skin, dull eyes, nervousness, "the blues," that "always tired" feeling resulting from Constipation should benefit by this famous formula.

HERE'S marvelous news for constipation sufferers! Results from 9 months' scientific tests in one of the world's most famous hospitals have at last proved there IS an IDEAL "daily" treatment for constipation. 16 Scientists took part in this clinic. Over 1470 experiments were made.

Tests showed many cathartics, purgatives, laxatives and harsh roughage products only "irritated" the bowel into action and resulted in bigger and more frequent doses having to be taken. After a time some products even made the condition worse.



ONE OF THE CHIEF CAUSES OF CONSTIPATION—

is a "clogged" colon due to lack of moisture in the colon. Waste matter then becomes caked, dry, hard and difficult to move on. Don't fail to read how Scientific research discovered an effective way to provide more gentle complete "daily" bowel movements.

SUCCESS AT LAST!

For over 40 years millions and millions of folks have been taking a "little daily dose" of Kruschen and many wrote in letters praising it to the skies. These scientists wanted to find out WHY. So they started experimenting with the "little daily dose"—a half to one teaspoonful in a glass of water in the morning—and what an astounding discovery they made!

And just listen to this!—Kruschen now also comes in effervescent form—sparkling, "bubbling"—and makes one of the most refreshing, delightfully pleasant bubbling drinks you ever tasted!!

WHAT A DIFFERENCE!

Imagine these scientists' joy when they discovered what a difference Kruschen made! No violence. No griping or nausea. No purging. Just gentle, soft, yet most satisfactory and complete movements without the slightest irritation.

Not in one test above did the dose have to be increased.

In fact these doctors and chemists reported: "We consider this one of the most important investigations we ever made and that this small daily dose of Kruschen is a MOST SATISFACTORY aid to keep the colon sweet, clean and free from poisonous wastes —Kruschen can be taken every day for years with no necessity to increase dosage."

HOW IT WORKS

You see if waste matter in the colon isn't kept moist—it becomes hard, dry, caked and results in constipation. These scientists discovered that a little daily dose of Kruschen actually PRODUCES NATURE'S OWN GENTLE PLEASANT BOWEL ACTION by keeping this waste matter moist and soft and makes it easy to expel. How grateful these Men of Science were to be able at last to endorse an ideal, "daily" treatment for constipation which, by the way, ALSO acts as a mild antacid and kidney diuretic.

INEXPENSIVE!

The low cost of this home treatment will amaze you. A jar of Kruschen lasts weeks and costs but a trifle. Take a half to one teaspoonful in a glass of water—don't miss a morning. And, if because of constipation you're feeling depressed, dull in mind with sleepless nights, —you should soon begin to feel like a new person — Frisky as a puppy — Whole world brighter and gayer! Don't fail to get a jar TODAY. Over 245,000,000 jars of Kruschen have been sold by drugstores THROUGHOUT THE WORLD. No wonder scientists wanted to find out WHY Kruschen did so much good for so many! THEY did and YOU should too, once you try it. And now that Kruschen comes in pleasant tasting "bubbling" form you, too, should get onto "the little daily dose".

GREAT NEWS!

Kruschen, made right here in U. S. A., now comes also in a most delightful tasting, "bubbling" form. Splendid for constipation as well as a mild antacid and kidney diuretic.
